A Minneapolis Man Pardoned for an old Crime

PACIFIC COAST WOOL IN DEMAND

Strange and Terrible Tragedy in Iowa—A Farmer Murders his Sister-in-Law and Kills Himself—The Record of Crime

NEW YORK, July 17.—William H Goddard, a Minneapolis merchant who was clerk for Austin Corbin the banker in 1873 and stole $15,000 from the Corbin firm while in their employ, was arraigned in the court of general sessions to-day. After Goddard took the money, which belonged to a customer in Germany, he disappeared. He afterward was known to have performed several heroic acts during the yellow fever scourge in Memphis. From there he went to Minneapolis, where he became a prosperous merchant, and prominent in society. In court to-day Corbin's counsel stated that as Goddard had made restitution, and a good name for himself, he did not care to press the charge. Goddard presented Judge Cowing with a petition in his favor, signed by 50 citizens of Minnesota, including Governor Hubbard and Mayor Pillsbury. After some deliberation Judge Cowing discharged Goddard on his own recognizance.

SIX CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH

PITTSBURG, July 17.—Last night the residence of Joseph Evans, a two story log hut three miles from Grahampton, Clearfield county, was destroyed by fire and his six children, ranging in age from 6 to 15 years, were cremated. Evans was wakened by a strange noise, and under the impression that burglars were about took his gun and went outside. To his horror he discovered the dwelling in flames. Before he could reach the children, who were sleeping on the second floor, the roof fell in and in a few minutes the building was all ablaze. His wife and three younger children, sleeping on the lower floor, were taken out safely, but the parents were forced to see their other children perish. This morning hundreds of people were drawn to the scene. The remains of four children, charred and unrecognizable, were gathered up and buried in one coffin. The other two were apparently reduced to ashes, as no trace of them was found. The parents are crazed with grief and the whole community is horrified. The father insists that the fire was the work of an incendiary, and his opinion others share.

PREPARING FOR A POSSIBLE OUTBREAK IN UTAH

OMAHA, July 17.—General Howard, who recently wrote to President Cleveland suggesting the possibility of a hostile demonstration at Salt Lake on the part of the Mormons on their pioneers anniversary, the 24th inst., received a telegram to-day from the president directing him to keep all posts of the western Platte department in full strength and be prepared for any emergency that may arise in Utah in the near future. General Hatch with the Fifth cavalry will be ordered to remain in readiness at Ogalala, Nebraska, to proceed by fast train to Salt Lake, if necessary. The Sixth infantry at Fort Douglas, Utah territory, consisting of 400 men, will be retained there and are considered sufficient to guard against anything except an organized outbreak.

PACIFIC COAST WOOLS

NEW YORK, July 17.—J. Koshland, who deals mainly in California wool, said: "California to-day grows better wool than it ever did. Certain manufacturers here will use nothing else. The market is rather quiet, but I look for a big improvement within a short time. Prices of all kinds of wool have fallen off 10 to 15 per cent compared with last year. If it were not for burr and seed, for which there is no remedy, California wools would be preferred to the product of other states. The bulk of the wools from Oregon are now coming here direct. The clip is in better condition than it has been in years and we notice on the market a lighter shrink in wools, caused by these direct shipments. Formerly the best Oregon wools were sold in San Francisco to large scouring concerns there."

GENERAL GRANT'S CONDITION

MOUNT MCGREGOR, N. Y., July 17.—General Grant slept fully eight hours last night and is dozing this morning. The weather is bright and warm and it is expected the patient may ride in his Bath chair to-day. The subject of employment for the general's mind is engaging the physicians. The enforced idleness of the past week is growing irksome to him, and it is thought that some means of interesting his thoughts may prove advisable.

THE CLEVELAND STRIKE.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 17.—Strikers are continuously engaging in military drill. They have scoured their settlement for fire arms and have received a formidable collection, composed largely of weapons of foreign manufacture. Within two or three days they have purchased 400 rounds of ammunition at a gun store in this city. The police expect to make a number of arrests soon. To-morrow the Cleveland Rolling Mill Co. will pay the strikers off.

MISS CLEVELAND'S BOOK CATCHES ON

NEW YORK, July 17.—The seventh edition of Miss Cleveland's book, issued last Monday, was entirely sold before it came from the bindery. The eighth edition has been entirely exhausted, and the publishers yesterday ordered a ninth edition to press as soon as the eighth is finished. Even Australia has become a market for the book, through San Francisco. Yesterday not a copy could be bought at the publishers.

OUR TRADE WITH AUSTRALIA

NEW YORK, July 17.—R. Moore, a well known statistician, writes to the Times that the withdrawal of mail service between San Francisco and the Australian colonies next November is of a more serious nature than many people imagine. Since 1874 our exports have increased over 240 per cent, exclusive of specie. We do not find such a ratio of increase in our exports to any of the rest of the world.

THE SILVER QUESTION

NEW YORK, July 17.—A Times editorial says: "Nothing more significant regarding the sentiment of business men on the silver question has occurred in a long time as the adoption by the cotton convention at White Sulphur springs yesterday of a resolution calling on congress to stop the coinage of silver dollars. There was only one dissenting vote."

TORE OUT HIS LUNG

LOUISVILLE, July 17.—Tom Harlan, aged 30, in jail with delirium tremens, broke a window pane to-day and with a triangular piece of glass stabbed himself in the left lung. Turning the glass round and round he made a horrible aperture, into which he thrust his hand and pulled out a portion of the lung. He is still living but will die.

THE WEEK'S FAILURES

NEW YORK, July 17.—Business failures during seven days for the United States number 209, Canada 19. There is some increase noted in the number of assignments in all sections of the country except New York city and Canada, where failures are few and unimportant.

HE DECLINES

UTICA, N. Y., July 17.—Ex-Senator Francis Kernan has declined the appointment of government director of the Union Pacific railway, recently tendered him by the president.

DEATHS FROM HEAT

JERSEY CITY, July 17.—There were several deaths from heat in Hudson county to-day. Five of the victims were children.

A STRANGE AND HORRIBLE TRAGEDY

An Iowa Man Murders His Sister-in-Law and Kills Himself.

FEDORA, Iowa, July 17.—This county is agog over a uniquely horrible tragedy last night at a farm house four miles from this place. Grace [illegible] and a beautiful girl, aged nineteen years, was a member of the family of Theo Johnson, a farmer, whose wife was her sister. The ladies customarily occupied a bed in the upper story while Johnson and his hired men slept together down stairs.

Last night the family retired as usual. Miss [illegible] fell asleep quickly, and just as Mrs. Johnson had nearly lost consciousness she was aroused by some one approaching the bed. It was her husband. He leaned over the bed, kissed her affectionately, bade her good night and left the room. Immediately after her husband had gone Mrs. Johnson's attention was attracted by strange movements made by her sister, and putting a hand on the girl's face she was terror stricken to feel blood gushing from her sister's throat. A moment later, writhing in agony, the girl rolled from the bed to the floor. Mrs. Johnson struck a light and discovered the girl lying dead, with throat cut from ear to ear.

A hired man came up in answer to her screams and instantly started to alarm the neighbors. When the nearest arrived Johnson too was found dying near the door, with a broad gash in his throat and a bloody razor beside him. Johnson violently opposed his sister-in-law's approaching marriage to a young man of the neighborhood. The theory is that he himself loved the girl and in a fit of insane jealousy murdered her and took his own life.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR

A DRUNKEN BRUTE KILLS HIMSELF

BALTIMORE, July 17.—Frederick Burmeister, a well known wealthy German restaurant proprietor, after having caused his wife and daughter to commit suicide, took his own life yesterday. Deceased was 65 years of age. He was of a very tyrannical disposition, and frequently abused his family when under the influence of liquor. About the 1st of last October Burmeister went on a protracted spree and spent over $1000. He then went home and assaulted his wife. Shortly after she was found by a neighbor lying on the floor of her bedroom with the main artery of her left wrist severed, and in an insensible condition. Burmeister was in a drunken stupor. When his wife regained consciousness she said her husband had inflicted the injuries, and the latter was arrested. Burmeister threatened his wife after she recovered that if she ever prosecuted him for anything he would kill her. Through fear of her husband the poor woman hanged herself the day before the trial. Burmeister then transferred his brutal treatment to his children, and a month later his eldest daughter, Lizzie, aged 21 years, committed suicide by hanging. Burmeister leaves an estate valued at $100,000. He has four children living.

AN OLD MAN'S CRIME

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—Joseph F. Cotteringer, secretary and treasurer of the Central Transportation Company, charged with the embezzlement of $147,500 and forging certificates for 112 shares of the company's stock, pleaded guilty this afternoon. Counsel begged mercy for the prisoner, who is aged 68 and the head of a highly respected family. A large portion of the stock, it was asserted, had been overissued by defendant twelve or thirteen years ago, and a large amount of money which defendant had received for the over issue was paid in dividends at 12 per cent per annum to every person who got the stock, so that he profited very little. Cotteringer began in a small way and kept it up in order to prevent the first fraud being discovered. The prisoner had nothing to say in his own behalf. The judge sentenced him to four years solitary confinement in the county prison.

BLACK MURDERER HANGED

MEMPHIS, July 17.—David Ackles (colored) was hanged to-day at Helena, Arkansas, for the murder of Frank Burrell and his wife (colored) last January. The hanging was the occasion for running excursion trains into Helena, and fully 6000 people witnessed the execution. Just previous to leaving the cell the father and mother of the murdered man visited Ackles. He asked their forgiveness and they gave it willingly. The murderer died without a struggle.

A FEMALE POISONER SENTENCED

CHICAGO, July 17.—Mary Idem, charged with attempting to poison the family of her sister, Mrs. Michael Freeres, was adjudged guilty this morning. The jury named the penalty as one year in the penitentiary. The prisoner is said to have confessed to causing the death of her father and another sister a year ago by poison.

DESPERADO HANGED

RALEIGH, July 17.—Eaton Mills (colored), a noted desperado, was hanged this afternoon in public at Halifax for assassinating Henry Gunton two years ago. Five thousand persons, many colored, witnessed the execution. Mills was cheerful to the last. He made no confession.

SPORTING NOTES.

BRIGHTON BEACH RACES

BRIGHTON BEACH, July 17.—Attendance 6000, track fast. The fourth race was the great event of the day, and it is said that in point of time made the distance run and the racing of two horses, it was one of the most exciting ever seen on an American track.

RAILROAD NOTES.

RATES TO BE REDUCED

ST. LOUIS, July 17.—A private circular issued by J. W. Midgley states that farmers of Colorado and Utah not being able to market their wheat, in consequence of high rates of transportation and being greatly cramped for money but having plenty of grain which they cannot sell, rates from all points in Colorado and Utah to the Mississippi river will, after to-morrow, be reduced about 40 per cent.

RATES ON WOOL REDUCED

CHICAGO, July 17.—The east bound freight association to-day agreed to reduce rates on wools from the Mississippi river east to 52 cents for compressed and 60 cents for uncompressed.

TO WORK ON THE CANADIAN PACIFIC

MILWAUKEE, June 17.—Eight hundred men left Eauclaire to-day to engage in construction work on the Rocky mountain division of the Canadian Pacific railway.

POLITICAL EXPRESSION

The republican speaking campaign in Ohio will not begin before September 1, and the intervening time will be given to organization.

The course of the democrats in New York convinces the mugwump Boston Herald that they are evidently getting ready for a genuine old fashioned kicking.

Ex Governor Long, of Massachusetts, refuses to be considered a candidate for Senator Dawes' seat, which becomes vacant in 1887. He prefers to remain for the present in the house.

The Maryland democratic state convention has been called at Baltimore September 16. Only two state officers are to be nominated, a clerk of the court of appeals and a comptroller of the treasury.

A New York correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean asks if there is any man, when looked at from the distance of Illinois, who appears to be the man for the republicans to nominate for governor of New York, and the Inter Ocean in its reply seems to think that Andrew D. White is such a man.

A Texas democrat says there isn't a party man in that state who believes in civil service reform. Well, Webster Flanagan, on the republican side, and Richard Hubbard on the democratic, forced the country to that conclusion long ago. Nevertheless civil service reform still lives.—Philadelphia Press.

Boston Herald (Mugwump): The only way in which the administration can be made a success is for those who elected it to give it a hearty support. The president will not order his purpose to respect the pledges upon which he was elected. If his party antagonizes him in his policy it will be split in two, forfeit the respect of the people and lose the succession.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Public sentiment does not demand that a democratic administration should do its work through republican officers and employes, but it does demand some degree of frankness. Since he has abandoned the policy of confining removals to offensive partisans the president would do well to add a postscript to his Curtis letter saying that he finds that republicanism pure and simple is intolerably offensive to the democracy.

Democratic Criticisms on Cleveland

Washington Dispatch to Chicago Herald (Dem.)

"What's Cleveland giving us?" ejaculated a Tammany brave. "Who have we on our hands now?" ejaculated a bombastic Bourbon. "Is the democratic party running Cleveland or is Cleveland running the democratic party?" inquired a gazelle eyed Chicago man. "Give it up," replied a San Francisco sand lotter. "Does the dog wag the tail or the tail wag the dog?" demanded an aspirant for a postmastership in the tar heel state. "What does Cleveland mean by conferring the Berlin mission upon Gentleman George Pendleton, the civil service reform idiot?" complained a confederate brigadier. "Who in thunder is Phelps, that a Vermont maple sugar alleged democrat should represent the administration at the court of St. James?" expostulated a stalwart exponent of democratic principles from Posey county, Ind. "Things are certainly not of the Jacksonian order," suggested a Tennessee state bond repudiator. "Where does Jeffersonian simplicity come in?" argued a Virginian from the tide-water country.

Jeff Davis as a School Book Censor

Philadelphia Press.

The vanity which consumes Jefferson Davis is well illustrated in his attempt to constitute himself the censor of southern school books, particularly histories. Whenever one finds its way into the south which doesn't speak of the rebellion as a "war between the states," laud the Dred Scott decision, call the states sovereign members of a voluntary union and mention the rebels as patriots, he at once flies into print and endeavors to have the book expelled from the schools. Mr. Davis should be still in the merciful obscurity to which the nation has consigned him. He had better attempt, single handed, to turn the course of the Mississippi river than to try to alter the verdict of history as to the aims and objects of the infamous conspiracy of which he was the head.

Courtship Among the Mormons

Boston Courier

"Well, good night, dearest George. I hope you will reach home safely. Can not you call again to-morrow eve?"

"No, dearest, I must, you know, go to see Ethelinda."

"Well, the evening after?"

"Sorry, but that's Angelina's night. It is a fact, dearest Aurora. Every night in the week is occupied now and I have three matinees to do besides. But cheer up, dearest, we'll have a grand wedding some of these days, when I will be able to clasp you all to my heart nevermore to separate."

Then pressing a fond kiss upon his darling's lips the lover takes his departure.

A Business Secret.

Americus (Ga.) Recorder

Those who have noticed that articles are frequently missed from their washing, which are generally found in their washing of the following week, can appreciate the following dialogue which took place recently between a couple of negroes at the corner of Bull and South Broad streets:

"What business is you in now, Bill? Looks as if you so mighty prosperous."

"Oh, I se doin' nothing tie'lar."

"Well, your wife is all is dressed up mighty fine, just like rich folks. How dat come about?"

"Oh, dat's all right. My wife's a washer lady."

FOREIGN DISPATCHES

The Empire Defense League Holds a Conference.

WAR NOT CONSIDERED PROBABLE.

Parnell's Motion for an Inquiry into Irish Murder Cases Defeated—The Munster Bank Failure—The Irish Public Aroused.

LONDON, July 17.—A conference of the Empire Defence League was held this morning at the Mansion house. Lord Lennox presided. The mayors of many provincial towns were present. Resolutions were adopted which declared that the defensive resources of the empire are inadequate, and urged the government to strengthen the navy for the purpose of protecting the coast and colonial ports and coaling stations, and to appoint a commission to inquire as to the relative strength of the British and foreign navies.

A deputation of prominent citizens, headed by the lord mayor, called upon Lord George Hamilton, first lord of the admiralty, to-day, and urged the necessity of strengthening the British navy. Lord George, in reply, said the government intended to secure the best professional opinion as to the actual condition of the navy. If the advisors decide that the navy was at present efficient the government would give that assurance to the public to allay alarm. If, on the other hand, it should be found by the advisors that the navy lacked in efficiency, and that active steps were necessary to strengthen it, the government would not hesitate to ask parliament for funds necessary to place England foremost among the maritime powers.

WAR HARDLY PROBABLE

Few believe there is any serious cause for alarm in the new phase of the Afghan boundary question. A special Russian commissioner in London expresses confidence that Salisbury would never fight for the miserable strip of territory now in dispute. Some military experts declare that the territory will give absolute command of Zulfikar pass and thence of Herat. These officers insist that a conflict is inevitable, but war talk is almost wholly confined to army circles, and their wish is understood to be father to the thought. It is noticed that naval officers are less belligerent in their talk, and it is suggested that their change of tone may be due to recent exposures of attacks on British war vessels, the proved inefficiency of torpedo boats and the practical failure of cruisers.

LONDON, July 17—1 30 P. M.—Consols opened at 99-16 for both, but at 1 o'clock had advanced to 99 1/4 and have since then been steady at this price. Paris advices state that the bourse this morning was firmer. Three per cent rentes quoted at 80f. 6c.

A RUSSIAN EXPLANATION

ST. PETERSBURG, July 17.—The Journal de St. Petersburg comments on the erroneous views held by the British press on the Zulfikar pass question. It says Russia understood that England had pledged to the ameer Zulfikar valley between Herirud and the mountains, and agreed in principle to leave this position to him. It is supposable it says that England has also promised to the ameer the easterly mountain passes which are now subject to negotiation between that country and Russia.

DEFENSIVE PREPARATION

ST. PETERSBURG, July 17.—The government has ordered the formation of a permanent fortified camp at Grodna, the capital of the province of Grodna, formerly part of Poland.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Parnell's Motion for an Official Inquiry into Murder Cases Defeated.

LONDON, July 17.—Robert Burke, under foreign secretary, stated in the commons this afternoon that the government would do its best to obtain an early issue of the Egyptian loan of $45,000,000. Negotiations with interested powers are being carried on with that end in view now. Mr. Burke said the government was unable to make any further statement at present.

Sir Michael Hicks Beach stated that the government had no further information from the Afghan frontier than that made public yesterday.

PARNELL'S MOTION DEFEATED

Parnell moved that the government order a special inquiry into the Maamstrasna murder cases.

Parnell dwelt on the administration of law in Ireland under Earl Spencer, whereby innocent persons had been condemned and executed, and others sentenced to lifelong penal servitude. He moved that in the opinion of the house it was the duty of the government to institute strict inquiry as to the evidence and sentences of the Maamstrasna, Barbavilla, Crossmaglen and Castle Island murder cases. Had the Irish executive, said Parnell, imitated the custom of the English home office in cases where the guilt of prisoners is doubtful by ordinary inquiries on the spot, in the cases mentioned the prisoners who were still living under the sentences of unjust conviction would long ago have been released from custody. Parnell declared that Crown Solicitor Bolton had in a single case insisted on forcing four or five innocent men to plead guilty. Said Parnell: "Speaking coolly, as I can, I believe that if ever a murderer deserved to be placed on trial and sentenced to death that man is Crown Solicitor Bolton."

Corbett, home rule member for Wicklow, seconded Parnell's motion, and hoped the government would take a lesson from their predecessors whom the Parnellite vote deprived of office.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach said the present government had nothing to say concerning the merits of the cases and nothing to say in defense of the late government. He was, however, authorized to announce that Earl Carnarvon, present lord lieutenant of Ireland, will make careful inquiry into the subject, but the government felt compelled to ask the house to resist Parnell's motion.

Parnell's motion was negatived without division.

CHURCHILL PRAISES PARNELL

During the debate Sir Vernon Harcourt warmly defended the late government.

Lord Randolph Churchill praised Parnell's calmness of demeanor and the argument with which he introduced his motion. Churchill said the present government would successfully govern Ireland only by divesting themselves of all responsibility for all acts of the late government. If there had been a miscarriage of justice in regard to which he expressed no opinion, it would be brought to light. He therefore appealed to Parnell whether it was wise or fair to press the amendment.

Parnell said the request was reasonable and asked leave to withdraw the motion.

Mr. Lewis said it looked like a compact between Parnell and the government.

PRESS OPINION

LONDON, July 17.—The News, in its leading editorial to-day, says: "The signs of an alliance between the Marquis of Salisbury and Parnell are clear. We know of nothing more discreditable in the history of parliament than this combination of conservatives and Parnellites. In an attempt to destroy their predecessors, unless it be the still more dishonest when the compact is disclosed. The [illegible] Parnell more completely than ever master of Ireland and almost master of himself."

THE EGYPTIAN LOAN

LONDON, July 17.—The Standard believes that the government has received such assurances from European powers as will enable it to raise the Egyptian loan immediately. Germany is desirous that one third of the loan be raised in that country.

PATTI DIVORCED AT LAST

LONDON, July 17.—A decree divorcing Marquis de Caux from Madame Patti has been pronounced.

THE MUNSTER BANK FAILURE

CORK, July 17.—A committee of shareholders of the Munster bank appointed to devise means for adjusting the affairs of the institution have approved the proposal made by Mr. Shaw to borrow sufficient money in England to liquidate the bank's present indebtedness. The directors have issued an appeal to the shareholders of the bank, calling upon them to attend a general meeting to-morrow in the bank, to be held in support of Mr. Shaw's proposal.

DUBLIN, July 17.—The earl of Carnarvon, lord lieutenant, has publicly announced that he will recommend that the government give all reasonable help to the Munster bank.

LIMERICK, July 17.—At a meeting of shareholders and depositors to-day a resolution was adopted expressing unabated confidence in the Munster bank. Mr. Shaw's proposition not to withdraw deposits for six months was agreed to.

THE PUBLIC AROUSED

DUBLIN, July 17.—The people protest against the Hibernian bank officials requiring a week's notice of withdrawal of deposits. Excitement runs high. Michael Davitt has left himself for the sea side, to avoid affiliating himself with the demonstrations of depositors.

SPAIN

UNABLE TO NEGOTIATE A TREATY

NEW YORK, July 17.—Herald's Madrid special: Sir Robert Morier, British diplomat, has just left Madrid after a three years stay, under circumstances which show the difficulties attending negotiations with Spain as British ambassador. He came to Spain to negotiate a commercial treaty with England. Two or three times the treaty was announced as definitely settled, but finally it failed. The ambassador left Spain so completely out of patience with its state department that he refused to make the usual personal calls before his departure. England has no commercial treaty with Spain, and its goods therefore are charged higher duty than those of continental countries. In return for admitting England to the most favored nation treatment, Spain demanded admittance at one shilling per gallon of Spanish wines up to thirty spirit test. According to the present English law wines above twenty-six spirit standard pay a duty of two shillings and sixpence per gallon, while those below enter at one shilling. This admits French wines, which are low in alcohol, but bars out higher proof Spanish wines.

A SPANISH AMERICAN TREATY.

MADRID, July 17.—Negotiations for a commercial treaty with America have been revived, as Mr. Foster insists upon settlement of the claims of Americans for indemnity due under the award of the Washington arbitration commission and a more exact fulfillment of the first protocol of February 1884, which the Spanish authorities in Cuba are evading.

John Sherman's Stage Ride.

Since Senator Sherman returned from his Pacific coast trip the following story has been printed in many eastern papers:

Senator Sherman enjoyed a breakneck ride down Siskiyou mountain on his stage journey between Redding and Roseburg, Or. The Ohio statesman had pre-empted a seat with the driver to get a better view of the splendid scenery on that elevated divide. The pace from the summit was a tearing one and the steep narrow grade made the ride appear particularly hazardous. The senator suggested that he could view things better at a slower gait.

"Got to make time," replied the ehu brusquely.

"I assure you that I am in no hurry at all," exclaimed John, casting his eyes down the precipitous crooked roadway.

"But I am," retorted the reckless whip, as he let the nags out another notch.

Sherman was scared. He had reason to be. Others had been scared before him and more are sure to find themselves in the same fix. A second later: "Driver, pull up. I just as lief—in fact I prefer to walk down this place."

"No you don't, senator. I've got three minutes to reach the valley and I'm going to make it or break a leg."

The lively six broncho team sped recklessly ahead, Sherman holding on with might and main.

Turning a sharp curve, the swing pole suddenly snapped. For a few moments things looked squally. A single lurch might send the coach over a 300-foot precipice.

"Keep your seat," cried the jehu, who with brake and reins quickly brought his team to a standstill.

A little later Sherman was holding the lines, his foot braced on the holdback, while the driver was down among the cattle splicing the broken swing bar.

All was in order again presently, and the senator reassured as to the entire safety of the twelve mile an hour canter down a 45 pitch grade, kept his place to the bottom without a quiver.

Thinking it over now, Sherman says it was the most exhilarating stage ride he ever experienced, and he wouldn't mind making the trip overland from California a second time just to take in that interesting piece of star route expediting down the Siskiyous.

A SAN FRANCISCAN DISGUSTED

A Spanish Prophetess Causes Trouble—A British Columbia Paymaster Robbed of a Large Sum—San Francisco Notes

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—The Times has the following double leaded Washington special: Secretary Manning is about to impress on the government one important feature of civil service reform that most of the hot and cold theorists have overlooked. He finds that he cannot have the cordial and earnest co-operation necessary in his department from partisan custom house officers appointed solely for partisan services, who are authors of many abuses he is expected to reform. He is thoroughly in earnest in the work of reforming the revenue departments, and finds his chief obstacle in the partisan methods and partisan officials now running the service, and will therefore demand the right to make his chief officials in harmony with himself and his administration. The president did not incline to a general change of chief custom house officials, but Manning has found himself handicapped in almost every instance, when trying to reach the bottom of abuses in the service. He will certainly require the general removal of all who sought and received office as partisan rewards.

CHANGED HIS OPINION OF CLEVELAND

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The case of Hugh J. Mohan, who came from San Francisco last fall and made 153 speeches in New York state for Cleveland and pawned his household effects to raise money enough to get through the campaign, is still on. Mohan has been one of Cleveland's most vociferous admirers. Recently the latter told him quietly that he should give the position in the San Francisco custom house for which Mohan was an applicant to a business man. Mohan grew red in the face, and managed to say that the president did not stop to inquire whether he was a business man or not when he asked him to stump New York state. Cleveland advised him to go back to San Francisco and use his influence with the collector there, who might possibly find something for him to do. Mohan is still here. His opinion of Cleveland has undergone a radical change.

A SPANISH PROPHETESS

FRESNO, July 17.—Mariana Murlata, the Cantua prophetess fraud, who created much excitement last year among Spanish residents of the county by claiming to be in communication with the Almighty, has been playing her pranks again. Dolphine Cavona, with his wife and child, was on a visit to the Coast Range mountains. While there Mariana prophesied that when they started home they would return crying. They started home shortly after, but had only proceeded a short distance when the child was taken violently ill, and died in half an hour. It was suspected that Mariana had poisoned the child in order to impress on the minds of the Mexican inhabitants of the mountains that she is a great prophet. Coroner King, Constable Fanning and a physician started for the Cantua to-day. She also claims to be the wife of Joaquin, the notorious bandit.

THE WAR IN PASSENGER RATES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—The efforts of local agents to maintain fares from this city to New York have been unsuccessful. Heavier cuts were made to-day than for a number of days. Regular third class fare from this city to New York is $50 50, but third class tickets were sold to-day for $30. A proportionate reduction was made in first class fares. The schedule price of first-class tickets to New York is $129 75, but a reduction varying from $1 to $20 was offered to-day on first-class fares. It may be stated that the whole passenger business is demoralized and agreements to keep up rates under the present system are illusive.

THE HOP MARKET

S. L. Jones & Co. to-day sold at auction 150 bales of hops at 2½ cents per pound. The market continues in a demoralized condition, and it is not possible to give a guiding quotation, though 5½ cents per pound is about the extreme price that a strictly choice article would bring at this moment.

EXPRESSION OF SOUTHERN SENTIMENT.

A southern paper tells us that southern literary people are aroused by the announcement that a new illustrated magazine, to be known as Dixie, will make its appearance in August. It will be published at Atlanta. It is the intention to make the new publication a vehicle of southern thought and opinion, and it is said that the staff of contributors will include many names well known in southern literature. It may be noted, however, that the plan of the magazine and its very name smack of the confederacy and indicate the provincialism of the south The southern states, with their fifteen millions of people, have never yet sustained a magazine, though many efforts have been made, and in all probability they will not sustain one now. The reason is that the so-called culture of the south is narrow, provincial and exclusive. Independent thinking is not wanted, and is scarcely tolerated The man who introduces new ideas, social or political, that run counter in any degree to the prevailing sectionalism of thought, is proscribed at once, as George W Cable, the brightest of all southern writers of the present day, has been proscribed for the article he contributed to the Century some months ago It may be safely guessed that Mr. Cable will not be admitted to a place among the contributors to Dixie. Here also it may be remarked that he is to follow up his former article with a new contribution to the September Century under a title which in itself is an eloquent deliverance—"The Silent South" This article will be a further essay on the colored population of the southern states and the treatment it receives as a social, political and economic factor "The Silent South" is an expressive term setting forth not only the enforced subordination of the rights of the colored race, but also the suppression of the thought and suggestion that would insist upon and lead to juster results.

The new magazine will undoubtedly be a protest on the part of the old south against a new south, qualified, indeed, to some extent by the great events of a quarter of a century, but still a protest against the logical consequences of the principle that individual freedom is the right of all, not the privilege of a class. The idea of "the south" is and always has been the rule of an oligarchy under the forms of democracy Whoso dares to speak against this, even at the present day becomes "a traitor to the south," as Mr Cable is. It is a tyranny that makes the power of the ballot conditional, even among the dominant race, and it identifies the individual who asserts and tries to enforce the claims of the colored race to equality of right and privilege before the law, with "the enemies of the south" A letter from Georgia, July 3 to the New York Herald says "A northern man cannot fully understand and appreciate our views, but every southern man will In the first place it must be remembered that the white people of the south have been raised, trained, and nurtured from their mother's breast and at their father's knees to believe that they are superior to the negro race. This feeling is just as strongly imbedded in the breast of the southern man as was and is the feeling that slavery was a sin in the breast of the abolitionist. What is meant, of course, is that since the white race is superior to the colored race, the former should rule and the latter should be kept in subjection The southern white man says that he feels kindly toward the negro and no doubt he does, in a sense but he has an ineradicable hostility to him as a political integer because he is a negro and the fact that he was given the right to vote in pursuance of the principle that suffrage, as an instrument of individual freedom is the right of all not the privilege of a class, has hurt the southern man far more than the abolition of slavery It roughly nullifies his idea of exclusive race privilege, and is the one thing to which he does not want to reconcile himself As Tourgee says in one of his books "To uphold any right of the negro against any general policy favored and maintained by the bulk of the white race is to invite the hostility of the man's own people, and to cover all his family with the odium of his act. In other words, the white man at the south who advocates any right of the negro which the mass of the white race is not willing to allow becomes thereby tainted more or less deeply with the odium attaching to what is deemed a hostile presuming and inferior class. If his advocacy is active and ardent, the hostility thereby evoked will be manifest in almost every relation which he or his family may chance to sustain to their white fellow-citizens. If it is merely passive and theoretical, very few will believe in its sincerity, and it will, perhaps be considered more whimsical than atrocious

The New York Herald's Georgia writer says further "We protect the negro in person and property as sacredly as we do the whites. But when it comes to according him the social rights that will make him our equal, then we flinch We don't want the negro to ride in the cars with our wives and daughters. We don't want him to go to the same hotel with us nor to eat at the same table. We don't want him to come into our houses except as a servant. We don't want him in our churches If we meet one on the sidewalk we want him to give way for us to pass. I could mention many others of similar nature but consider this enough

It is strange that his notion about 'social equality' should so prevail and persist among a sensible people Elsewhere than in the south it is well enough understood that there is no necessary social equality among people who chance to ride on the same cars, to stop at the same hotel, or to attend the same church When a white person in Portland meets a Chinaman on the sidewalk it does not occur to him to want the Chinaman "to give way so that he may pass He decently gives part of the way himself It is plain that where such ideas prevail as this southern writer sets forth, there is no just regard for the negro's rights as a man or a citizen. "The summing up," says the Georgia writer, "is this The negro is demanding every day full recognition of every social right—that is, as to churches, railroads, hotels, theaters, etc., the whites are bitterly opposed to it and these bring up the question, What is the solution of the negro problem Our answer is this The negro must emigrate He must move out. He must go somewhere else, or in a few years he will see inaugurated a war of extermination of either the whites or blacks—one or the other must go." Neither will go, of course. Both will stay. But the expression of such opinions, contributed frankly to a leading northern journal supposed to sympathize with them, shows that the old contest of national politics—right against privilege—is not yet ended There is no thought whatever of trying to force unwelcome social relations upon the southern whites, or upon any portion of our people in the south or elsewhere The law of social intercourse is a law unto itself and regulates itself But the pretense of avoiding social equality is no excuse for denial of equality before the law of the land, which includes equality of personal, of civil and political rights. To him who notes the spirit of the south as set forth in utterances like those of this letter from Georgia, is there any doubt concerning the statement for which republican conventions are censured, that these rights are violated and denied?

A NEIGHBOR'S ACCUSATION.

The esteemed Standard publishes the following, which we think it will admit, on reflection, is altogether injudicious

If THE OREGONIAN wants more business done in Portland to give employment to labor, and fill up the vacant houses and consume the products of the valley etc, why don't it apply its advice and remonstrances to itself, and stop trying to monopolize the newspaper business of the city? Its policy for some time past has been as selfish and proscriptive as that of any of the various classes for which it imprecates funerals and sheriff sales THE OREGONIAN managers publish a very good newspaper but it is not best for the community that they should do all that kind of business and that signs 'To Let' should be hung upon the other newspaper offices. That is not the way to make a city grow "Physician heal thyself

What is our neighbor's accusation? That "THE OREGONIAN is trying to monopolize the newspaper business of the city" But how can it do this? Only by making a better paper than all others. It neither has nor seeks any unfair advantage. The field is an open one. If any other journal can beat THE OREGONIAN as a newspaper, such journal will quickly "monopolize" the field, and THE OREGONIAN will have to take a back seat. The complaint, then, against THE OREGONIAN simply is that it is so energetic and so complete a newspaper that no other can compete with it. But are we to be blamed for making it such? Is the enterprise exhibited by THE OREGONIAN a reproach to it? Would it be more creditable to it to slacken its industry, to reduce its expenditures for news, and give its esteemed contemporaries an opportunity to catch up? And would this be rendering the public a service?

As to employing labor, THE OREGONIAN certainly does its full share. There is no establishment in the state that pays out so much money, one year with another, as this. Its payroll for wages alone exceeds two thousand dollars a week for every week in the year Connected with the service of the establishment in all the branches of publication and delivery, there are more than one hundred and twenty persons Regular expenditures for publication and delivery exceed those of all other publications in Portland, daily and weekly, secular, agricultural, religious and miscellaneous. We submit, then, that THE OREGONIAN is not throttling business, nor refusing labor a chance, as the Standard intimates On the contrary, it is doing something in the way of business and of employing labor itself The Astorian, with a clearer view than the Standard, says

THE OREGONIAN advises Portland to drop one per cent and start manufactures The advice is good And THE OREGONIAN's suggestion reminds us that such a concern as that newspaper represents considerable of a manufacturing establishment itself. If two or three men came to Portland and offered to put in $200 000 and employ twenty-five or thirty men to spend about that many thousand dollars every year in the city they would feel justified in asking or some encouragement immunity from taxes a small subsidy or other recognition A newspaper is in the nature of a manufacturing establishment but differs from the most of manufacturing establishments in being expected to stand in first, last and all the time, and have for its reward the consciousness of duty done

Not only is THE OREGONIAN a large employer of labor and a manufacturing establishment of no small proportions, but it is the foundation of another very important enterprise—we mean the manufacture of paper For many years it has been running a paper factory in Clackamas county, and through its connection with a new paper company a new mill whose output of paper is at the rate of $200,000 a year, has been put in operation a few miles from Portland, in Washington territory The sheet now in the reader's hands is of that mill's product. This enterprise has created the growing village of La Camas and directly and indirectly it supports several hundred persons No, brethren THE OREGONIAN has not been preaching about manufactures what it has hesitated to undertake itself. And right here it occurs to us to say that if paper making will pay here—and THE OREGONIAN has proven that it will—manufactures in a hundred other lines will pay also.

Returning for one more word to the original text, we must say to the esteemed Standard, and to others whom it may concern, that though we stand ever ready to oblige them in every way that is reasonable we really cannot permit THE OREGONIAN to become a poorer newspaper even to please esteemed contemporaries by enabling them to compete with it. We sincerely hope the sign "To Let" will not be hung upon the other newspaper offices" but after all that is very much their own business, and we cannot avert it at the price of sinking THE OREGONIAN below its present position as a newspaper, or of declining to improve it further as time goes on, so as to bring it up nearer by steady movement to our conception of what a newspaper ought to be

It is likely we think, to become a settled principle, that, under our system of assessing real property for taxes at not more than one-third of its value, mortgages on real property will be required to pay only one-third of the taxes levied upon them at their face or nominal value; and we think this would be sustained in the state courts as well as in the courts of the United States Our mortgage tax law attempts to give a mortgage the character of real property and it fixes its situs in the county where the land on which it is secured is situated. If real property under the decisions of our supreme court ... can be taxed only as other real property is taxed The legislature may select the subjects of taxation, but all taxation of any subject selected must be equal and uniform. Now if land is taxed upon only one-third of its value can a mortgage upon land be taxed at the full value of the debt secured by it? When this question comes directly before the supreme court of the state we shall pretty certainly have an answer that will sustain equity and equality in taxation.

We print this morning an interview with Mr Paul Schulze, general land agent of the Northern Pacific railroad respecting the recent decision of Commissioner Sparks in the matter of railroad indemnity lands It should be understood that Mr Schulze states the railroad side of the question We give his views as a matter of public interest at this time

Trow's directory of New York city for the present year has just been issued It contains the names and addresses of 310,16 persons—an increase of 10,717 over last year The gain of population is estimated at not less than 50,000 per annum, and the population of the city is not far either way from 1 500,000

In the News yesterday there was the usual grist of bogus dispatches We "paralleled a column of them as usual, but can't afford the space to-day for the exhibit More, however, in due time

While Matthias Sutherland was sleeping in his tent, eleven miles from Eagle Pass Landing last Sunday about midnight, a tree that had been burned at the roots fell across him, causing instant death Deceased was a young man 29 years of age, and had been employed along the railway work for years. His home was in Dorchester, near London, Ontario

Railway work is being pushed rapidly from the east. It is estimated that there are fully 10,000 men in the Rockies and Selkirks. In places the work goes on continuously, the men working eight hour shifts, as they do in the mines, the electric light being used at night. MORMONS SICK OF POLYGAMY

But for a Few Leaders they Would Have Yielded Long Ago.

A correspondent writing from Salt Lake City, July 2, to the Philadelphia Times says The very best thing that could happen to the Mormons today would be the coming to the front of a man who would advise and lead them intelligently They have suffered all that one community should be called upon to endure, from inspired leadership Now what they most need is common sense and ordinary judgment. The heathen do not yet fully realize that polygamy must go Virtually, however, the institution of celestial marriage is dead; so severely has it been struck that if let alone hereafter it is questionable if it could recover The people themselves are heartily tired of the business and I do not mean the monogamous Mormons merely, but the mass of polygamists also, who secretly rejoice over the knowledge that the end is at hand. Aside from the trouble and expense the polygamy has brought them from the outside it has been full of misery and discontent at home. Neither women nor men have ever been able to adjust themselves to the unnatural condition of things They might profess satisfaction in the relation, and to the world assume an air of peace and contentment, but under the surface there has ever burnt a little hell, torturing women and grievously annoying men

John Taylor and George Q Cannon are not the men for the occasion Taylor is a rank bigot and is not a man of brains. He is incapable of grasping the situation and has not the wisdom and foresight to take the best advantage of circumstances Cannon is unquestionably an able man, learned in the ways of the world and abounding in resource, but he has not been himself since congress kicked him out of the house three or four years ago He is represented as being desperate and as refusing to listen to any proposition looking to a surrender to the inevitable He knows as well as other intelligent persons know what the stubborn resistance against the inevitable means he knows that it means more suffering for his people; but he is one of those obstinate men who prefer rather be forced to submission voluntarily after their minds have been once made up

With Taylor and Cannon out of the way I believe there would be a ready and cheerful submission to the Edmunds law, at least to the extent of the absolute prohibition of future polygamous marriages and the closing of the mouths of the preachers and advocates of the practice It may be marked down here that the Mormons have had about all the imprisonment they want, and if the church will not help them to escape the jail they will help themselves which they can easily do by simply promising to obey the law which most of them are sorry they ever violated

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

OF PERFECTLY SOUND MIND.—Mrs. Bridget Lavin appeared before County Judge Moreland yesterday in order to be examined as regarded her sanity. Complaint was made on Monday last by Van B. Delashmutt that Mrs. Lavin was at his office raving crazy and he wished her arrested and put where she could do no one any harm. Upon these representations, Sheriff Jordan and Jailor Dougherty, as is frequently done in such cases, signed a complaint charging the woman with being insane and two deputy sheriffs went down to make the arrest They found Mrs Lavin very peaceable and she quietly accompanied them to the court house where Judge Moreland released her upon her own recognizance After this it was proposed to withdraw the charge but she insisted upon the usual examination in such cases, hence the court of inquiry yesterday. The county judge and Doctors S. E Josephi and James Dickson constituted the examining board. District Attorney Gearin represented the interests of the people and James Gleason those of the accused. The examination lasted something over an hour and was of the usual searching character There was nothing which appeared to show that Mrs Lavin was at all unsound in mind, and the physicians readily certified to that fact. In accordance with their certificate, thereupon, County Judge Moreland ordered Mrs. Lavin's discharge and she walked out with her head high

"CLUB MOSS" OR "FINGER PINE."—R C Bonser of Scappoose left at this office yesterday a bunch of pretty bright green, mossy-looking, creeping vine which he found in the woods below Scappoose. He is a native of Oregon, 30 years of age, and has never seen this plant before. He has been a pupil in the public schools here and has taken lessons in botany, or probably he would have walked over the plant without noticing it. It is a species of "club moss." It is common in the woods of New England and Canada, and the writer has found it around the base of Mt. Hood, but has never seen it in any other place in Oregon. There are several varieties of the club moss. This species is sometimes called "finger pine," for a reason which will be plain to all who see it. It is very pretty and much used, where plenty, in decorating rooms, etc. It is gathered and sold in large quantities for this purpose, as it keeps its bright green color for a long time. It is probable that every student of botany in Oregon will be surprised to know that this plant has been found in this section, as it is a native of much higher altitudes.

WILL OF DAVID R. FALES.—In the county court for Clarke county, W. T., held at Vancouver, the will of the late David R. Fales, of that place, was yesterday admitted to probate. It disposes of a large estate, consisting mainly of about 3000 acres of land and roughly estimated to be of the value of $25,000 The will bequeaths to the widow one-third of the entire estate during her lifetime After her death it is to revert in equal parts to their two children, F M Fales and Mrs C R. Steggert, both of Vancouver, One-third of the remaining two-thirds is bequeathed to Mary Aldrich during her life. She has been with the family ever since her childhood, now forty years. At her death this bequest is also to revert in equal parts to F. M. Fales and Mrs. Steggert. The remainder of the estate, after paying three legacies of $100 each to children who have lived with the family, is to be divided equally between the two children, Mr. Fales and Mrs. Steggert. Mrs. Fales, the widow, is made the sole executor of the will, without bonds.

A SCOUNDREL DEFEATED.—There was a case before Justice Goddell of Astoria Thursday wherein one Rosine Miller sued one Petina Richard on a writ of replevin to recover some personal property belonging to her From the testimony it appears that Richard went to Astoria some time ago and sent for the woman, on her arrival he furnished a room for her and tried to make her give him the wages of her prostitution She refused, whereupon, she claims, he compelled her under terror of her life to sign a note for $110, on which he sued and got possession of her furniture, whereupon she sued for its recovery. The jury very properly gave a verdict in her favor Between the two the woman is the more deserving, says the Astorian. Who can say how the poor creature first fell from virtue or who is it would cast at her the first stone, but what word is there too vile to use in connection with a being erect upon two legs and wearing the form and semblance of a man who would try to compel a woman to support him from the proceeds of her shame

TAKEN TO THE PENITENTIARY.—Sheriff Jordan, aided by W L Boise, took two Chinamen to the penitentiary at Salem yesterday. One was the fellow, convicted of an assault upon a fellow countryman near Rooster rock with intent to commit robbery, and sentenced for three years, and the other was Wong Foon, the murderer who goes up for life. The latter had been told by his counsel that when taken to the penitentiary his queue would be cut off, so just before starting this disciple of Confucius coolly and deliberately proceeded to cut it off himself close to his head He then carefully wrapped it in a neat parcel and delivered it to another Chinaman to be sent back to his relatives in China as a sort of farewell token of his love and regard for them Although he did this act of self abasement,—for such it is considered by these heathen—as a matter of religious observance, he seemed to hold it as lightly as many men do the christian religion in this country, for he laughed as heartily over his bobtailed appearance as any uninterested party could have done

CLAIM A VIOLATION OF CONTRACT.—U. S. Commissioner Lamson yesterday took the depositions of Kenneth and Donald Macleay for use in the case of Thurber & Co against the Central Pacific railroad company This is an action brought in the southern district of the United States court for the state of New York by the great wholesale commission firm of Thurber & Co to secure a rebate of about $10,000 on a freight bill for canned salmon transported over the Central Pacific railroad on their way to New York The firm of Thurber & Co is represented by Messrs Dolph, Bronaugh, Mallory and Simon, while the railroad company is cared for by Mr Fauld's of San Francisco and Messrs Strong & Strong of this city The railroad company refuse to pay the rebate agreed upon and sued for, for the reason, they say, the contractors sent some shipments of canned goods to New York by sailing vessels via Cape Horn, in violation of their contract

OREGON'S MEMORIAL STONE.—At the last session of the legislature the sum of $1000 was appropriated for a memorial stone from this state to be placed in the Washington monument, in a niche left for that purpose, and the contract for executing this work was let to Frank Woods of Albany. He has been engaged upon the work for some time, and expects to have the stone completed by August 1st Although several states have expended much more than Oregon for a memorial stone it is stated that none yet sent from any state will surpass this one when completed. It is to consist of three kinds of Oregon stone The stone itself is a brown sandstone bearing on its face a landscape containing the coat of arms of the state surrounded by fruits and flowers, the whole enclosed with a raised moulding The stars surrounding the state shield are to be of a greenish granite set into the sandstone, and the snow capped mountains are to be represented by white marble, also set in the brown sandstone

CUSTOM HOUSE FORCE REDUCED.—Orders were received in this city yesterday from Secretary Manning of the treasury department to reduce the working force in the custom house in this city one-half, which was accordingly done by the dismissal of seven employes This is undoubtedly a result of the report of Special Agent Evans, who recently made a tour of the customs districts of this coast He found a great and unexpected reduction in the revenue receipts, the same having fallen off in many custom houses 50 per cent, within the past six months. The employes relieved from duty by Secretary Manning's order are Day inspectors, E. A. Kees of Clackamas county, Abe Tichner of Portland; night inspectors, William Brown and William Moreland of Portland, weigher W. T R gdon of Marion county Ben C Duniway of Portland, opener and packer, and W L Phillips, a clerk, of Portland

ONE SAVED—THE OTHER DROWNED.—At a late hour last Wednesday night, says the Astorian, Fred Holm and his boat puller in boat No 3, of the Astoria Packing Company, were thrown into the water by the upsetting of their boat on Clatsop spit. The boat puller scrambled onto the bottom of the boat, Holm instantly disappeared and was seen no more. In two hours John Peterson of boat No. 7, belonging to the same cannery, who was rowing by, heard the boat puller's cries, and at considerable personal risk saved the man, the boat and net went out over the bar Holm was a Russian Finn, unmarried, aged 50 years.

HELPED OUT THE REPORTER.—"We feel sorry for you fellows in these dull times," remarked one of the genial deputies in the United States marshal's office yesterday, as an OREGONIAN reporter strolled in. "We have an item for you to-day, and there being not much doing here it is all 'written off.'" The reporter expressed his thanks, and now does the writer the compliment of publishing the item as written It is mainly prized for its accurate statement of facts "Henry Webster having been committed by United States Commissioner Fred Page-Tustin, and brought down by Deputy United States Marshal Morse from Pendleton, upon an allegation preferred against him of disposing of spirituous liquor to one Mr Lo, a poor Indian, Mr Webster has gone so far as to admit that he transgressed the laws of his country to that extent, and has therefore been held to answer in the United States district court."

ROAD FROM CANBY TO THE BEACH.—The direct road from Fort Canby to the weather beach is nearly finished. The work has been accomplished by the personal and intermittent exertion of Major Rogers, the post commander, and will not only form a great convenience and pleasure to those who may be temporarily visiting at the cape, but changes the entire character of the place for those who live there. To give an idea of the amount of work that has been accomplished, and the density of the underbrush it may be said that this road, although two and a half miles long, has been under way since the 17th day of February, and with the work of four men constantly, and such volunteers as felt disposed to lend a helping hand.

CENSUS STATISTICS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY.—According to the census statistics of the assessor, just submitted, Washington county has a population of 9245. Of this 2385 are legal voters, and 2554 are males over 21 years of age. The county has 49,869 acres under cultivation, and last year produced 390,819 bushels of wheat, 556,899 bushels of oats, 7869 bushels of barley and rye, 3162 bushels of corn, 324,332 bushels of potatoes, 99,378 bushels of apples, 14,582 bushels of plums and prunes, 15,153 bushels of onions, 337,110 pounds of butter and cheese, 18,829 tons of hay, 3177 tons of carrots and beets, and 21,690 barrels of flour.

NOT MANY PURCHASERS NOW.—The vender of needle-threading machines was surprised yesterday. Nearly every man who stopped to look at his machines insisted on trying to thread the needles himself, and after a few abortive efforts walked off grinning Others merely picked up the machines, and after looking at them a moment laid them down and walked off smiling The fellow worked hard, but though he threaded needles never so deftly, no man seemed inclined to buy. It might be remarked right here that no woman would ever buy such a machine She knows too much about threading needles to be so easily fooled.

HUSBANDS A LONG WAY OFF.—Affidavits were filed with County Clerk Saunders yesterday by the plaintiff's counsel in two divorce cases now pending for the purpose of getting an order for the publication of the summons in each case. Mrs Mary L Matthews' counsel declares that David T Matthews who was last known to be in San Antonio, Texas, cannot be reached by mail, and the same statement is made by counsel for Mrs. Jemima C. Lawrence concerning her husband, Joseph R. Lawrence, who was last heard from at Sydney, Australia. Both of these married couple are pretty thoroughly separated now, it would appear

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY.—The young ladies and gentlemen of the Christian church and congregation, on Columbia and East Park streets, have organized a society for spiritual, mental and social improvement. The officers were Miss Welsh, president, J. W. Conaway, vice-president David Faulkes, secretary, Rodney Payne, treasurer, Miss Cusick, historian Miss Lizzie Webb, organist. The pastor, Rev J W Webb, is chairman of the advisory committee. The society will meet each Tuesday night in the church at 8 o'clock, and all friends will be cordially welcomed

NOT YET OUT OF JAIL.—J. Bielman, who was discharged by the United States grand jury from the accusations of having intercepted letters to other persons, expected to be a free man to-day, but the fates ordained it otherwise. Judge Deady authorized his release but before he got outside the jail a warrant arrived from Justice White's court for his arrest upon a charge of larceny preferred by his former partner in the vinegar factory, Werner, who also claims to have been swindled by him Hence Bielman is still in jail.

MANGANESE ORE.—The gentlemen who were interested in the subject of manganese are invited to call at the reporters' room of THE OREGONIAN office and see the specimens received yesterday from S. S. Bateman of Washington county and M. Colvig of Jackson county also a specimen of aluminum sent by the last named gentleman There is a great diversity of opinion as to the value of manganese, and also as to its scarcity THE OREGONIAN will be pleased to publish any reliable information in regard to these points

SHALL HAVE A FAIR FIELD.—The Seattle baseball nine arrived here yesterday afternoon, accompanied by a dozen or more of their friends, who hope to see them victorious in the game to-day It seems as if the Seattle boys were just going for our boys about this time. They contest for the supremacy in base ball they race our foot racer an l shoot with our champion. They only ask "a fair field and no favor," and THE OREGONIAN is assured that they shall have it, and "let the best man win."

DESERVE PRAISE.—Our streets have been kept so clean of late and so well sprinkled that no one has had occasion to find fault with them. It has not occurred to any one to say a word in praise of the manner in which the streets are attended to People just go along and enjoy the immunity from dust and dirt and take it all as a matter of course The writer had his attention called to this fact yesterday by a visitor to the city who after looking admiringly at a block of cleanly swept street, inquired if the streets were swept every day

BUSINESS DEPRESSION AT COOS BAY.—A correspondent, writing from Newport in the Coos Bay News, says "Lumber is the great staple of manufacture on this coast, and the overproduction and consequent decline in price produces a universal depression in business circles A change must come, and it will be well if it arrives early giving, in diversified industries a reliable and a permanent source of employment to the increasing population of the Pacific coast."

DESERTED AND ALONE.—Sergeant Brodie, as he treads the solitary grass-grown embrasures of the lonely fort at Stevens, opposite Cape Disappointment, feels "like one who treads alone some banquet hall deserted, whose lights are fled, whose garlands dead, and all but he departed The fort shows the signs of time and need repair. The sergeant is the sole remaining representative of the garrison.

LOOKS LIKE REDUCTION.—The Portland Water company have replied to the communication from the common council asking them to reduce their rates The reply states that this matter has been under consideration for some time pending the completion of the extensive improvements to their works, and they ask that the council appoint a committee to confer with them in regard to the matter.

TO AWAIT TRIAL.—John Wilson, colored accused of sending an obscene letter through the U. S mails to Mary Ellen White, was arraigned before Judge Deady yesterday and pleaded not guilty to the charge He was remanded to jail to await trial, which is likely to be some months yet as no jury has been summoned for this term nor is there one likely to be called before November,

TO CARRY LUMBER.—The San Francisco Chronicle says "Parties are in town negotiating for the construction of an auxiliary steam vessel to carry lumber from the Columbia river the capacity to be about 600,000 feet of lumber It is stated that the machinery and boilers formerly in the auxiliary steamer George S Homer are to be used in the new craft."

REPORTED FATAL ACCIDENT.—A report reached this city yesterday afternoon that an old man who lives near the Clackamas while crossing the railroad bridge across that river on his return from a visit to Oregon City, fell through and was killed by striking on the rocks some forty feet below Inquiry failed to develop further particulars last evening.

GORED BY A COW.—Jacob Farlow, living near Albany, had a serious encounter the other morning with a vicious cow. The brute rushed at him, but luckily the horn instead of striking his body was thrust into his arm This was bad enough, however, as the arm was gashed open to the bone, making an ugly and painful wound—Herald Disseminator

INVESTIGATED.

The City Surveyor Before the Council Judiciary Committee.

No Evidence Adduced to Show that the Accused had Used the City's Instruments and his Assistants for Private Work.

A meeting of the judiciary committee of the common council, consisting of Messrs. Sears, Farrell and Forbes was held last evening to investigate the charges preferred against City Surveyor Chapman by Councilman Sears at the last meeting of the council

The charge was that the city surveyor had been guilty of using the surveying instruments of the city and the assistants of the surveyor's office in private work for his own emolument during the hours when the assistants were paid by the city.

City Attorney A. H Tanner appeared for the city and James Chapman as counsel for the defense.

C. M. Bobo was the first witness called. He said that in the month of June, 1884, he had employed the city surveyor to make a survey and set stakes for him on some property belonging to F W Gillette and John Muir to see what amount of cutting and filling was necessary He had seen Chapman employed on the work and did not know the name of the person who did the work. He had received a bill for $41, which at his request was reduced to $25. He gave an order on the city auditor for the money and produced a receipt for the amount. There were other street improvements going on in that vicinity at the time, and he did not know whose instruments were used in making the survey He had made no contract with Chapman, but merely left an order for the work to be done.

Charles Oliver assistant city surveyor, was next sworn and testified that he had cross sectioned blocks 132 and 133 belonging to Mr. Muir I was at that time and am now employed by the city. It has been my business to keep the time of the men employed in the surveyor's office and to the best of my knowledge have kept it correctly I do not think there is anything charged to the city which was done for private parties I have had charge of most of the private work done. The time book has been completely under my control and I have fixed the compensation for private work done. More than nine-tenths of the surveying done for the city has been done with Chapman's instruments I think it took about three-quarters of a day to do the work on Mr Muir's blocks. There was no deduction made in the pay roll."

The pay rolls for the city surveyor's force were produced and submitted to Mr Oliver who pronounced them correct. Each of the employes was accredited with a full month's work of twenty five days. It was explained by the witness that when it was found necessary to send men to do private work and extra men were employed the time made by the extra men was added in the places of the time lost by the men employed at private work and thus was avoided the placing of many different names on the pay roll which had been objected to. Sometimes orders came in from many contractors at the same time to have stakes set and it was necessary to employ several extra men, and then again on account of rain or other cause work would be slack. Sometimes more extra help was employed than would fill out the time spent by employes in private work, and Mr Chapman had paid the difference out of his own pocket

The witness Oliver had been employed under Surveyors Taylor and Chapman and it had been customary to do private work.

D W Taylor was sworn and testified that during the time he was city surveyor he had found it necessary to do private work in the city. Much of this work was adjacent to streets and no one but the surveyor could do it. Mr Oliver had been his assistant and had charge of the private work When he did extra work he went on his pay roll Mr. Taylor explained his system of keeping the account of work, which was to give the name of every man employed and the amount of work done by him. He stated that he had furnished his own instruments.

Messrs. Mulhollan and Pagott, employes of the city surveyor, were sworn, but their testimony elicited nothing but what has been already stated.

W S. Chapman testified that Mr. Oliver had kept the time of the men employed, and he was satisfied that it had been kept correctly. It frequently happens that all contractors want work done at the same time, at other times there was not so much doing. It was customary to employ extra men when necessary, whose time would fill up the time lost by regular employes or any of them on private work. If a man laid off during the month he was allowed to put someone else in his place, and the work was credited to the regular employe, who drew pay for it, and thus putting the names of many different men on the rolls was avoided.

Mr Sears asked if this was not a dangerous way of keeping accounts.

It was replied No more dangerous than any other way If a time-keeper wished to cheat he could charge for twenty five days' work when only fifteen were done The employing of extra men had been necessary, but there was no authority for employing so many men and so the present style of substituting the time of extra men for that lost by employes in private work or otherwise had been adopted

This explanation seemed to be satisfactory and no complaint or imputation of the charges made against Mr Chapman The committee will make ... the ... city ...

Future of the Independents

Interview with Senator Sherman.

"Senator, have you seen anything during your visit east to indicate a return to the republican party of the independent vote?"

"I have had no real opportunity of judging. But from a brief observation of affairs I do not think the defection of the republican party last fall will be continued permanently I met several gentlemen who did not vote our ticket and some who voted for Cleveland, who said they were republicans, and that no purpose to leave the party but believed the best good of the country would be subserved by the general policy of the republican party Some of them in New York are already discussing their preferences for governor, and, so far as I conversed with them, their choice will be from among the republicans whose names have been discussed for nomination.

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

Various Matters of Interest to the Pacific Northwest.

Correspondence of The Oregonian

WASHINGTON July 10

The opening of the new fiscal year makes available all money allowances, and the officers of the various departments are prepared to make the expenditures required of the government It will, no doubt be of interest to the readers of THE OREGONIAN to know what Uncle Sam intends doing for the northwestern country. First then, of the public buildings

The only expenditure of this kind is for the erection of a public building at Port Townsend Washington territory, where a suitable structure will be provided for the accommodation of the postoffice custom house, bonded warehouse, and other government offices The cost of the building and site is not to exceed $70,000, and the site shall leave the building unexposed to danger from fire in adjacent buildings by an open space of not less than forty feet including streets and alleys and no money is to be available until a valid title to the site of the building is vested in the United States. The building will be provided with fire proof vaults for the preservation of all government records.

For establishing complete a first order light and fog signal on Destruction Island Washington territory, $40,000 will be used

Under the coast survey the following sums will be used Continuing the survey of the coast of Oregon including off-shore hydrography, and the survey of Columbia river and Willamette river to the head of ship navigation $6,500 continuing the survey of the coast of Washington territory $1,500 Salaries of officials Washington territory $16,600 legislative expenses, $4,000 contingent expenses $500.

Support of the Forest Grove industrial school, $36,500, completion of school building, etc., $10,000, in all, $46,500.

The treasury officials give the following as the expenses of collecting the revenue from customs in the Oregon districts during the present fiscal year

Port of Portland $23 310 port of Astoria, $9780 port of Coos bay, $3000 port of Yaquina, $1200 Washington territory Port of Port Townsend, $26,472 50

The postmaster general has allowed the claims of the following postmasters in this state for losses sustained by their offices, without negligence or culpability on their part

D W. Baldwin Hay Creek cause of loss, fire Max Muller, Jacksonville, fire, L S Wood, Weston fire

In Washington territory L. F. Barry, Colfax, cause of loss fire James Clark, Houghton fire E Gallick, Neah Bay, fire

The claims of the following have been disallowed W W Ross Sparta, cause of loss, fire D B. Jackson, Port Gamble, Washington territory, fire

The cause for the disallowance of the claims was that the evidence of loss proved unsatisfactory

The following postoffices in Oregon have been discontinued

Adamsville Wasco county, mail to Alkali, Dundee Yamhill county mail to Lafayette Wallowa Union county mail to Lostine Willows Umatilla county, mail to Alkali

The following report on an examination of Lewis river Washington territory, has been made to the chief of engineers

"Lewis river except the Cowlitz, is the largest tributary of the Columbia river below the Willamette. The north fork is the larger and more rapid branch During mean and high stages small river boats can ascend to Cedar creek, about ten miles above the junction of the forks Small settlements exist above Cedar creek, but the stream is too rapid and obstructed by bars of heavy material to afford navigation Valuable cedar and white pine, as well as fir, are reported to abound on the head waters

"The population of the valley is about 3000 and is steadily increasing All trade is with Portland. The owners of the steamers plying on the route decline to give any statement of the traffic, for the reason it is thought, of preventing publication and attracting attention to its profits,

"On the lower six miles of the river navigation is impeded, and the use of larger boats prevented, by drifts and snags. Steamboat people, and especially settlers, desire the removal of these obstructions

"I have to report that this part of the river and the north fork as far as Cedar creek are worthy of river improvement, but that the work is not a public necessity

"Works of improvement would consist in snagging operations and moderate scraping of bars at an estimated annual cost of $1500 for operating a steam snagboat when used on the Lewis

"The estimated cost of the improvements is small compared with the advantages to be derived"

EUGENE NOTES.

EUGENE, July 1?

Rev W G. Simpson of the M E. church is spending a few days in Ocean park.

Mr J L. Rollins who has suffered from such continued illness goes to Portland this morning to enter St. Vincent's hospital.

A jovial Corvallis party, composed of Messrs. Churchill, Bransfield and Neugass, the Misses Jacobs and a few others spent last Sunday in Eugene.

The welcome countenance of Mr. F B Mason, for many years resident of this place, and engaged on the State Journal, but now of the Oregon City Enterprise is visible on our streets.

Many of our citizens, as well as those of other parts of the state are spending the summer at the mineral springs on the McKenzie That place is a summer and health resort seemingly rapidly growing in favor

It is feared that the rust recently appeared is going to damage very severely the fall sown grain Harvest of the fall grain has already begun at least three weeks earlier than usual. The fall crop will be excellent and the spring ... large

The ... enterprise of the Eugene water works company is progressing finely The latest plan is to place a reservoir on the side of Skinner's butte just north of the O & C R. R. depot. The city council last Monday night did not give the company any special encouragement but it is earnestly hoped that this failure on the part of the council will not deter the company from the completion of its plans

Richmond Whig (Rep.)

In 1860-61 the Bourbons refused to submit to the majority of the people of the United States and they appealed to force. Defeated in that they now seize control of the federal government by fraud and seek to perpetuate that control by oppressing the majority This second attempt, embodying the same substantial issue is utterly indefensible, for, while secession had its argument, and was at least open, bold and manly, this wretched treason by fraud against the fundamental institutions of a free ballot and the rule of the majority dare not be avowed much less defended.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

William J. Coughlin of Somerville Mass. says In the fall of 1876 I was taken with Bleeding of the Lungs, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh and was confined to my bed In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar At one time a report went around that I was dead I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when, to my surprise, I commenced to get well and to-day I feel better than for three years."

INDEMNITY LANDS.

The Railroad View of Commissioner Sparks' Recent Decision.

Interview with the General Land Agent of the Northern Pacific

A reporter of THE OREGONIAN called upon Mr Paul Schulze, general land agent of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, to make inquiry respecting the effect of the recent decision of Commissioner Sparks upon the land policy of that company. In answer to a question Mr. Schulze said.

"If it has any effect at all it will be very slight. There seems to be a great deal of buncombe in this decision It has been heralded with a great flourish of trumpets by an ambitious young politician. Should Mr Sparks' decision stand its effect will be that parties who have settled upon indemnity lands before selection by the company and who have not exhausted their government rights, i. e., the right of homestead or pre-emption, will be allowed to homestead or pre-empt 160 acres each. The number of settlers upon indemnity lands who still hold their government rights is small. Railroad lands are generally sought by people who have exhausted the privilege of homesteading and pre-empting, and these will be benefited by this decision. Another effect will be numerous attempts at land jumping, consequent litigation and distress among settlers. I am confident that the promoters of this decision will curse the day that they took hold of this business, it will serve as a boomerang In the end it may work to rid the country of an organized gang of land jumpers and land sharks which has its headquarters at a town in eastern Washington and do some good, after all

By this decision Commissioner Sparks attempts to upset what has been the practice of the general land office and the department of the interior ever since 1850 when if I remember right, the first land grant bill was passed—that to the Illinois Central The same practice and the same rules in regard to withdrawals within indemnity limits of land grant railroads have prevailed, with very slight modifications, under the administrations of Presidents Fillmore, Pierce, Buchanan, Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, Garfield and Arthur, and their respective secretaries of the interior and commissioners of the general land office, prominent among whom is Thomas A. Hendricks now vice president. Under this practice the indemnity limits were fixed simultaneously with the granted limits upon the filing of a map of definite location, and the lands embraced therein were held in a state of withdrawal until the respective railroad companies could ascertain their losses and make indemnity selections. In the case of the Northern Pacific, the various secretaries have followed this rule, and the lands in the indemnity limits were withdrawn whenever the granted limits were fixed upon filing of map of final location

Reporter—How then is it that the commissioner of the general land office can make a decision ignoring or reversing decisions of all his predecessors? Ans—That is a question which it is hard to answer It may be for a political effect or it may be that the commissioner is ill-advised. The question of the indemnity withdrawals for the Northern Pacific Railroad Co contiguous to and coterminous with the constructed parts of the railroad and as far as it is definitely located is not an open one it is res adjudicata This matter came up before Secretary Teller in the spring of 1883, and was argued by able counsel on both sides. All points that have a bearing upon the case were then raised and after full consideration Secretary Teller decided under date of May 17, 1883 that the withdrawal of indemnity lands for the Northern Pacific should stand for a reasonable length of time so as to give the company an opportunity to make selections and get the land to which it is entitled under its charter. The company has since selected the greatest portion of the indemnity lands in Oregon and Washington territory which it desires to select so far as these lands are surveyed and the company can look with equanimity upon this attempt to wrest from it what it has fairly, justly and legally earned.

Q.—For what reason do you hold that this matter has been adjudicated? Cannot the commissioner reverse a decision of his predecessor? A.—Yes and no An executive officer of the government may reverse a decision of his predecessor upon reconsideration if the whole case had not been presented in the first instance, but when, as was the case in the matter of the withdrawal of the indemnity lands for the Northern Pacific railroad before Secretary Teller, all points were fully presented and considered—the very ones which Commissioner Sparks tries to reconsider—then and in that case the head of the department is bound by the decision of his predecessor This principle has been recently reaffirmed by the secretary of the interior in the case of Mansfield vs Northern Pacific railroad company, involving title to a tract in eastern Oregon It has also been settled and reaffirmed by various decisions of the supreme court of the United States

Q.—Will you please state as precisely as possible what is the position of the Northern Pacific railroad company in this matter and what in your opinion will the company do to assert what it considers its rights and the law in the premises Ans—The position of the company is this That its grant is a grant in quantity and an entirety, that it is entitled to 25,600 acres of land for every mile of constructed road, that where this quantity of land cannot be found within the granted limits it has the right to select lands anywhere in the indemnity limits no matter in what state or territory the losses may have occurred that the land within the indemnity limits must be held in a state of withdrawal, to the exclusion of every other claim until the losses of the company in the granted limits shall have been fully ascertained and the company shall have had an opportunity to make its indemnity selections, and that, if the quantity of land in the ten mile indemnity limits is not sufficient to indemnify the company for its losses suffered between the time of the passage of the act and that of filing the map of definite location in any one state or territory, the company is entitled to go beyond the original indemnity limits to a distance of ten miles on either side of its line in the respective territories and select lands in lieu of those lost between the dates specified This position has been sustained by able arguments made ... others by Hon Charles S. Voorhees now delegate to congress from Washington territory when attorney of the company at Colfax and it has been affirmed by the secretaries of the interior who have had occasion to pass on the points involved

Q.—Do I understand you aright in stating that the Northern Pacific railroad company has two indemnity limits A.—Yes sir. By its charter the Northern Pacific railroad company is given the right to select indemnity lands ten miles on either side beyond the granted limits and the grant being an entirety, no provision is made confining the company for its indemnity to the states and territories in which lands are lost By joint resolution of May ..., 1870 the company was given the right to go ten miles beyond the original indemnity limits but there it is especially provided that indemnity must be taken in the state or territory for the losses suffered therein

Q.—This does not seem to be generally understood in the country A.—No sir I am afraid it is not A few newspapers in league with land attorneys preach the doctrine that the Northern Pacific railroad company has no rights and for the purpose of promoting litigation misinform their readers

Q.—I have seen it stated that the indemnity selections which the Northern Pacific railroad company has made in the last two years were illegal because the company had failed to designate the tracts for which it desired to take indemnity A Walla Walla paper of recent date made this statement saying the action of the company was in direct violation of the rules and regulations of the general land office Ans.—These statements are about as accurate as the class of papers and lawyers to which I referred generally state anything or know anything It is the object of this class to keep the people in ignorance and prey upon their ignorance Under date of May 9th 1883, the commissioner of the general land office directed the register and receiver of Walla Walla to accept the indemnity selections of the Northern Pacific railroad company without requiring the designation of lands lost. Like instructions were given to every other land office in Oregon and Washington territory wherever the company presented selection lists This order was given for the purpose of saving time and facilitating the adjustment of the Northern Pacific grant It would involve an infinite amount of labor and tend to great confusion were the company required to show in every local land office—you know there are a great many along the line of the Northern Pacific between St. Paul and Tacoma—what lands were lost for in most cases the lands lost would be located in another land district. On the other hand in the general land office at Washington the losses can be easily ascertained and the adjustment of the grant more rapidly completed All this is a matter of record in view of which it is astounding how papers which have any regard for truth or that pretend to give accurate information to their readers can reiterate the statements which you have mentioned Such reports do not hurt the railroad but in many cases work great harm to settlers

Q You seem to be sure that the decision of the commissioner will not be affirmed by the secretary but in case Secretary Lamar should confirm this decision what then in your opinion would be the course of the company? Ans I am very confident that the decision of the commissioner will not be confirmed at least not in its full bearing but in case the commissioner should be sustained the matter would be brought into the courts and carried up to the court of last resort I consider the decision of the commissioner very unfortunate for the reason that it will cast doubt upon many titles will involve settlers in expensive contests and suits and ruin many

The Columbia River.

Iowa Falls Citizen

The Columbia is a wonderful river and its course to the ocean is richer and more replete with the grand the magnificent and the awe inspiring, than any other river or valley in the world. Here are the Cascade mountains a mighty range of giant peaks extending north and south parallel to the coast Nearer the sea and extending in the same direction is the scarcely less lofty system of mountains known as the coast range. One would as soon expect to see the law of gravitation reversed as to see a river running at right angles through such cloud capped barriers as these. Yet there it is. As if cleft by resistless stroke of the hand of God himself, through rock and mountain that awful gorge is opened by which the Columbia finds the sea. I use the word "awful" because there is no other work which so early expresses my meaning. No man possessed of the ordinary attributes of humanity can stand for the first time by the side of that river where it breaks through the Cascades looking up at the towering overhanging height on height and rock on rock which stretch away to the clouds and down on the great river at his feet rushing with an angry roar through the jagged islets which offer vain resistance to its passage and not experience in his heart a most profound feeling of awe There perhaps as nowhere else he begins to realize how infinitesimally small is one poor vainglorious man in this great world—itself but a grain of sand in the universe of God, and how pitifully weak and puny is his mightiest exhibition of power compared with the slightest forces which have moulded this wonderful earth.

A Mighty Big Ship

From the New York Tribune

In the town of Camden, Me. the largest ship, except one, ever built in the United States is nearly completed She is 26[illegible] feet keel, 2[illegible] feet over all, and 45 feet beam, with 28½ feet total depth of hold, 8[illegible] feet of this being between decks. She has two full decks and a set of heavy orlop or spar beams twelve feet from the floor These dimensions indicate that she will measure over 2300 tons net register, the Great Republic coming first, in point of size, being down in the register for 335[illegible] tons. The latter ship was 302 feet tonnage length, 48 feet [illegible] inches beam, 29 feet 2 inches hold, had three decks, and was built by Donald McKay in East Boston, 1853 The Rockport craft has a frame of Virginia white oak with planking and ceiling of southern pine, and is strongly fastened with iron and copper all the tree nails being of North Carolina locust. This big ship will carry for lower masts four sticks of Oregon pine which will trim up as follows Main and fore masts 90 feet long, 36 inches diameter, and jigger 88 feet long, 28 inches diameter. These big sticks were towed down from Boston by a tug boat and were hauled out of the water by a long string of oxen. The mizzen, main and foremasts will be square rigged, the lower and topsail yards being also of Oregon pine, while the jigger-mast will be fore and aft rigged The maintop will be sixteen feet across, and there will be room enough up there for pretty nearly the whole ship's company. A good idea of the vessel's size and of the spread of sail she will carry may be had from the fact that it is 185 feet deep from the deck to the main truck, while her lower yards are about 90 feet long. She will carry one of Knowlton's patent windlasses, and the capstans of the same make—two on the forecastle deck and one amidships. Her anchors will be from Camden village, where one of over six thousand pounds has been hammered out.

AFTER DINNER.

Persons who suffer from Indigestion can arrest the progress of that painful malady by the use of an after-dinner pill, so composed that it will give tone to the stomach, prevent heartburn, rouse the liver to healthful action invigorate the kidneys, and thus, through the activity of these organs, promote the natural movement of the stomach and bowels AYER'S PILLS are so compounded that their action, though mild, effectually produces the above results. They also, in curing Constipation, remove the cause of Biliousness, Liver Complaint Kidney Disease, Rheumatism, and many other serious ailments.

AYER'S PILLS

contain no mineral nor poisonous substance, and do not gripe unless the bowels are irritated, and even then their influence is healing. To continue their effect in constipated or chronic cases, they need only be taken in diminishing instead of increasing doses. For seamen, and inhabitants or travelers in sparsely settled countries where physicians are not at hand, they are of inestimable value There is hardly a sickness they will not alleviate, and in most cases cure, if taken promptly To young girls just entering upon womanhood, and to women whose period of maternity is drawing to a close, Ayer's Pills, in moderate doses merely sufficient to ensure regular action of the bowels, will be found of Incalculable Value.

PLYMOUTH ROCK.

A Visit to the Spot Where the Pilgrims of the Mayflower Landed

A Visit at Old Town—Relics of the Colony Days—How the Rock is Guarded from the Souvenir Fiend—Some Thoughts on the Pilgrims

[illegible] The Pilgrims Reader pause [illegible] those words a second time [illegible] thoughtfully Words of a [illegible] in colonial life How fraught they are with meaning How grandly they emboss the title-page of American history! Are you a true American Are you a child of New England Does your genealogy go back to the good old father and through the voyagers on the noble Mayflower? Especially if the last be true you will be deeply interested in all that pertains to the Puritans I, too, feel a touch of pride knowing that my ancestors were among the founders of Plymouth [illegible] come, together let [illegible] and stand upon the [illegible] which on that [illegible] December day [illegible] welcomed [illegible] fathers to these hospitable shores.

Leaving Boston by early morning train we [illegible] southward What a rocky and [illegible] is. In the immediate vicinity of Boston [illegible] has [illegible] the rocks, have hewn the trees [illegible] the gulches, and have leveled the hi[illegible] [illegible] been made [illegible] suburban homes [illegible] [illegible] twenty or twelve miles [illegible] exception [illegible] and the few farm houses [illegible] rocky [illegible] the [illegible] trees [illegible] they [illegible] trees they may [illegible] spruce maple oak ash and [illegible] stand [illegible] a general view [illegible] country would appear [illegible] Nearing Plymouth which [illegible] numbers is forty miles from Boston, the trees are smaller more scattering, and the ponds more numerous The towns up to Plymouth [illegible] upward of [illegible] larger ones being [illegible] But we are now in sight of Plymouth harbor and are speeding along its beach A few minutes later the train stops at a [illegible] built railroad station the fifty or more tourists alight stream through the building and each [illegible] own way goes forward to view the [illegible] in prayer and grateful tears

[illegible] probably not one foot of neighboring earth but has felt the feet of the Pilgrims Be sedate This was the home of men and women who regarded life most seriously Reflect Over two and one-half centuries of slowly measured years here find record in musty archives Speak reverently On yonder hillock [illegible] down by the billowy kissed [illegible] the majority of the brave one hundred and two souls who stepped ashore from the trusty Mayflower

[illegible] is a quiet manufacturing town numbering [illegible] inhabitants is at least quiet as a manufacturing town well can be, The town extends up and down the timber and is built on ground that [illegible] water's edge. The streets are generally [illegible] and well shaded Strolling [illegible] through Court street, Pilgrim hall is reached Stepping within to inquire the most direct way to Plymouth rock we are voluntarily detained by the many relics and paintings of the Puritan fathers. The hall is entered under a portico supported by large Ionic columns. On the pediment is set a demi relief, an allegorical representation of the "Landing." Immediately to the left of the building is a large tablet on which is carved the compact made in the cabin of the Mayflower when first the ship was anchored in Cape Cod [illegible] Surrounding the tablet is a circular [illegible] fence on which are hung iron plates containing the names of the signers of the compact. Within the hall are found knives, forks, spoons, shoes, tables swords, etc, that were brought over by the pilgrims Among the relics, one of the most interesting and best preserved, although made of wood, is Governor Carver's chair, brought with him from England It is of the old straight backed style, although the posts and rounds are handsomely turned The present seat has [illegible] replaced others of rawhide or cane [illegible] indisputed relics are an iron kettle [illegible] owned by Miles Standish Hanging on the walls are a number of fine paintings representing the embarkation and landing of the Pilgrims [illegible] of the most valuable is The Embarkation from Delft Haven by Charles Lucy It is [illegible] feet, and at a prize exhibition in England it took the first prize of $5000 In the right hand corner of the picture is John Carver, the first governor of Plymouth colony Carver is seated on a stool, elbow on his knee and leaning on his right hand. His left arm is around the neck of his wife, who is leaning on his bosom Behind the couple is [illegible] [illegible] Mullins—the maiden Priscilla about whom Longfellow sung so sweetly—who is gazing at the pastor John Robinson, while bestowing his benediction on the departing voyagers. To the left are Miles and Rose Standish, both standing he with right arm thrown around his wife. In the foreground is William Bradford, reclining at the feet of a group of passengers.

Pilgrim hall [illegible] also busts and portraits most of them imaginary however, of the founders of the colony A few minutes inspecting these, and we tell the secretary in charge of the hall that we will return later We step [illegible] street. A stronger magnet [illegible] drawing [illegible] onward We [illegible] first principles. [illegible] street [illegible] we reach Leyden [illegible] to the left. We make [illegible] yonder grade [illegible] the left, and you'll find what you seek On we go A bee-line is [illegible] toward the ocean There is the place [illegible] curve and the object of our search [illegible] Plymouth rock stands before us

It is well [illegible] are gifted with powers of imagination [illegible] It was that dead of winter day on which the Pilgrims landed To-day, September the thermometer registers [illegible] degrees in the shade Rough was the land that received the [illegible] feet comparatively carpeted are the avenues we tread Fiercely dashed the [illegible] against Plymouth rock as they [illegible] to-day the fractured bowlder is two or three hundred feet from the bay and carriages drive over it in a cloud of dust. Yet Plymouth rock occupies its original position As the commerce of the [illegible] increased, piers were built outside the [illegible] and when the space was filled with earth the rock was raised to correspond. In 1775, while the rock was being raised, the portion now in sight was found to be split from the main [illegible] What now appears is probably four feet long, three feet wide and three feet high, although it tapers somewhat It rests beneath a stately granite canopy about thirty feet in height Supporting the canopy are four granite pillars, while between these are hung iron gates, seemingly with the intention of effectually barring the tourist from even a touch of the rock. Yet this is necessary Were it otherwise
